SERVICE BOARD SURVIVES FIGHT

BILL TO LIMIT ITS AUTHORITY MEETS A SETBACK IN HOUSE COMMITTEE.

CARFARE IS CAUSE OF ROW

Same Machinery That Raises Rates Needed to Lower Them When Time Comes—St. Louis Men Agitate Question.

Jefferson City, Mo.

The measures designed to "clip the wings" of the Missouri public service commission by taking away from it jurisdiction over municipal franchise contracts were "killed" by the House judiciary committee.

The measures were introduced by Representative Wagner, of St. Louis, at the request of an organization of city mayors, following the increase of street car rates in St. Louis and Kansas City.

The proposed measures would have taken the power away from the commission to abrogate franchise contracts between municipalities and corporations.

The greatest argument against the bill was that rates had been necessarily increased by the commission because of increased cost of material and operation during the war and that the same machinery would be needed to reduce the rates when conditions again became normal.

Discount Bank Favored.

The two bills urged by Festus J. Wade and Breckenridge Jones, of St. Louis, to amend the banking laws to permit the organization of a discount bank to get foreign business for Missouri were introduced in the Senate and House.

They were offered in the Senate by Senator Brownlee, chairman of the banks and banking committee, while they were introduced in the House by Representative Meyer, of Gasconade, chairman of the similar committee in the House.

The purpose of the bills is to amend the laws so as to permit state banks and trust companies and manufacturers to buy stock in the proposed discount bank, which will give credits for foreign business. The amendments provide that a bank or corporation can buy stock in another corporation not to exceed 15 per cent of its own capital stock. The measure will enable the state banks and trust companies and manufacturers to buy stock in the proposed discount house, which authority is now conferred upon national banks.

State Departments Reorganize.

Representative Kasemann, of Gasconade, introduced a bill into the House to provide for the complete reorganization of the civil state departments.

The measure provides for the departments of agriculture, finance, labor, mines and minerals, public works and buildings, public welfare, public health, trade and commerce, and registration and education. A director for each department to receive $3,600 a year, and a number of assistants are provided.

The most radical change in the proposed reorganization is that contemplated in the department of trade and commerce to include the present departments of public service commission, state bank commissioner and state superintendent of insurance.

Pension For Blind Voted By House.

The House, without a dissenting vote, passed the bill to pension blind persons in Missouri.

The measure, which was introduced by Representative Speer, of Bollinger county, provides a pension of $120 a year for each blind person who has an annual income of less than $500.

The pension will be paid in four installments of $45 each by the state auditor.

Code Measure Passed.

The measure introduced by Representative Farris to simplify the code of civil procedure was passed by the House. The measure was endorsed by the Missouri Bar Association.

Forty-two of the 51 children's code bills which have been reported favorably by the house committee, will be made a special order of business in the senate. The date to be announced later.

The friends of the measure feel that practically all of the important measures have been reported favorably, and are sure of passage. Only seven of the proposed bills have been reported unfavorably by the both the senate and house committees. These, also, will be taken up again at a later date.

Fight on Factory Inspector.

Several senators took some pretty hard falls out of a measure introduced by Senator Goodson, of Macon, extending the scope of the state factory inspector and increasing salaries in his department and adding some more deputies and increasing their salaries. Senator Gray, of Jasper, in particular, went after the bill, and Senator Goodson withdrew it from consideration.

The inspection not only includes workshops and factories, but other places where three or more persons are employed, poolrooms, moving picture shows, shining parlors, etc.

Suffrage Bill Delayed.

Staving off the third reading of the suffrage bill is daily game of wits in the senate. This bill, No. 1 on the senate calendar, carries suffrage to a limited extent for the women, and will be called for final action whenever its friends think the time is propitious.

It has been evident for one reason or another that the 18 votes necessary to pass it have not been available at any time during the last few days, and with Senator McKnight, the author of the bill absent, it has been delayed from time to time.

The Bronson resolution creating a committee of seven to block out plans for the Missouri Centennial celebration in 1921 was adopted without a dissenting vote. The committee, is to consist of Gov. Gardner, Lieut. Gov. Crossley and Speaker O'Fallon of the house, two members of the senate and two members of the house yet to be chosen, and is required by the terms of the resolution to report as soon as possible what appropriation will be needed to make arrangements for the celebration.

A series of new bills was introduced in the senate by Young of Caldwell, amending the laws under which cities of the fourth class are operating, so they will be authorized to purchase and operate waterworks and ice factories.

A new bill by Senator Gardner authorizes municipal corporations to change the names of their streets and provides a shorter method of affecting such changes.

Among bills sent to engrossment was one by Elder amending the laws governing the changes of the names of life insurance companies, so that the change can be made on the vote of three-fourths of the directors.

Burford introduced a joint and concurrent resolution submitting an amendment to the constitution which would permit municipalities to buy or to operate water works or ice plants.

McCullough's revision of the code, covering the supervision of the registration of business corporations was sent to engrossment. One of the main changes of the law requires a corporation derelict in its registration and reports for more than one year to pay full incorporation fees and tax on re-statement.

Mayes introduced a "full assessment" resolution and let it lie over one day, but failed to call it up and it is still in abeyance. The gist of the resolution is that the state board of equalization shall not lower the assessments for the current year to a point where the revenue will be insufficient to provide revenue for state purposes.

City Plan Measures.

Measures planned to furnish the machinery to St. Louis for the condemning of certain property public use, and establishing building lines were introduced in the house by Davidson of St. Louis.

These measures were prepared by the city plan commission, and were introduced at the request of City Counselor Killore.

One measure provides for the filing of plats, plans and replats of land and prohibits the sale of lots or parcels of real estate under or in accordance with any unrecorded plan or plat.

Hurry-Up Call in Fight.

The New Constitution League and the Kansas City representatives sent a hurry-up call to Mayor Beardsley of Kansas City to come to Jefferson City and help get out of the House committee the bill for a new constitutional convention.

Representative Wilkinson, who sent the telegram to Beardsley, said the five Democrats of the committee favor sending the bill out, and the six Republicans are opposed to it. Wilkinson said the Democrats were willing to incorporate the non-partisan features.

Witnesses Called.

Names of witnesses whom it is desired to subpoena in the state prison inquiry have been submitted to the House investigating committee by Representative Frank Farris, of Rolla, Keith, of Iron county, and Shouse, who introduced the three resolutions which started the inquiry.

Representative Chalfant, chairman of the committee, said subpoenas would be issued and the hearing would probably be resumed soon.

Pawnbrokers Curbed.

The Senate committee on judiciary reported to the Elder bill, reducing the interest rate of pawnbrokers in this state from 2 to 1 per cent per month. The bill also requires pawnbrokers to enter upon the tickets the date of each interest payment and the date to which the payment carries the interest.

The author of the bill says that in reality pawnbrokers under the present system charge from 5 to 6 per cent per month, instead of the legal 2 per cent, as there is no way of

BLOODY BATTLE IN WATCH TOWER

Two Men Stage Fight as Hundreds Stand Helpless.

DROP FROM WEAKNESS

Bodies of Men Were Mauled and Hacked in Almost Unbelievable Fashion, and Their Clothing Was in Shreds.

Chicago.—Mike Smith, a Slav, climbed the ladder leading into the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad tower at Erie and Kingsbury streets to relieve Dominick Gigonti, an Italian. The men watch the crossing over many tracks and switches, and lower and raise the gates.

There has been hostility between them for some time. Mike, as he stuck his head inside, saw something that fired his anger. He said:

"Who drove that spike hole through that galvanized bucket?"

Scene of the Battle.

Hot words followed, and the men squared off. The site chosen for the battle was in a little room four by six feet. It was glassed in before the fight and on top of a tower maybe 15 feet high.

Mike chose an iron bar and a short piece of chain. Dominick had a can cover for a shield and a heavy hydrant key for a weapon. With oaths the men began to fight. Blood flew and the windows were demolished.

People began to gather. The crowd swelled to dozens, hundreds, and then perhaps a thousand or two. Neighbors phoned for the police. Minutes passed and the battle went on. Otto J. Stolzenberg, chief of the railroad police, and Joseph Haggerty, city patrolman, were soon on the scene. They were helpless, for the battle was going on in the tower, up a shaky ladder, and to stick a head up meant probable death. The men swayed and weaved and gasped. More minutes passed. Blood was everywhere. Under the blows they gradually weakened.

Both Fighters Collapse.

Finally they collapsed and the police reserves arriving, lowered them down. At the East Chicago avenue station examination showed that the men's bodies were mauled and hacked in an almost unbelievable fashion. Their clothing was in shreds.

Smith has a wife and four children. Gigonti, a widower, also has four children.

Makes Plans for Burial Before She Takes Life

Easton, Pa.—Miss Anna Innes, 67, before ending her life by the gas route, laid out all the clothing in which she wished to be buried, stuffed paper in the window and door frames, wrote letters to her nieces and then fastened one end of a gas tube to her mouth by a linen holder that she had made for that purpose.

Politeness Is Painful.

Cleveland, O.—Solomon Grassgreen is going to be about the most unpollite person in these parts from this time on. Grassgreen was cranking his automobile when a policeman dropped off a passing street car. As he alighted, his revolver dropped out of his holster, and Grassgreen, being polite, stooped and picked it up for the officer. In doing so, the weapon was discharged and Grassgreen was shot through the right hand.

Use Van to Haul Away Loot.

Chicago.—Depleted of all furniture, tapestries, linens, silver and rugs, the house of A. F. Smith was found virtually empty when the family returned from the theater. Burglars, armed with a moving van, had busted themselves during the hours of the Smiths' absence.
